ESTATES of GRACE

America's historic homes hold the keys to creating outdoor idylls that stand the test of time. The latest crop of alfresco furnishings, fabrics, and accessories delivers garden-party swagger in spades—which style are you?

PRODUCED AND WRITTEN BY RACHAEL BURROW RUMMEL

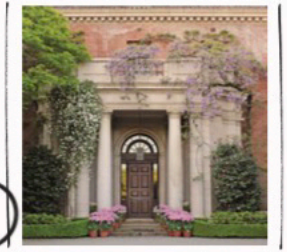
Reminiscent of deck chairs found at English country homes, chic zinc-framed seating swoops in to withstand the elements.

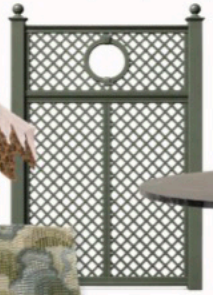


Filoli in Woodside, California, is a sublime example of Georgian Revival architecture, with its redbrick facade (left) and ivy-cloaked garden house (opposite).

GEORGIAN ELEGANCE

Think gently bowing metalwork, aged stone, and a riot of florals: The quiet grandeur of the 18th-century British aesthetic conjures afternoons amid the boxwoods (mischief permitted).

A petite sofa inspired by the work of French architect Pierre Chareau is pure garden romance.



Designer Polly Eddis reimagines the old-school parasol with a hand-blocked floral lining and treated cedar.

From the outfitter of 1930s transatlantic ocean liners, a metal-and-stone table by Maison Leleu for midday tea.

CLOCKWISE FROM TOP LEFT: Deck chair, The Heveningham Collection. • Roma planter, Summer Classics. • Chareau settee, Mumder Skiles. • Equinoxe round dining table, Maison Leleu. • Garden trellage, Bridge Lane Home & Garden. • Thalia fabric, Cowtan & Tout. • Horkesley hand-blocked printed parasol, Parasol-UK. • Rialto wall lantern, Hector Finch. • Border: Solana Stripe fabric, Osborne & Little.